Campbell's Annual Celebration

OLD SETTLERS' DAY - WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

The twenty-fourth annual celebration of "Old Settlers' Day," Campbell's big day, will be held, Washington's Birthday, February 22nd, at Campbell. At this celebration many of the pioneers of the now famous Santa Clara valley gather annually to renew their acquaintances and make new friends. The program of the day is in charge of a committee from the Improvement Club and an entertaining program has been arranged. Judge Thos. J. Lennon of the appellate court at San Francisco will deliver the address of the day at 10:30 a. m. Musical numbers will be given by a chorus composed of Mrs. R. H. Hyde, Mrs. W. S. Shelly and Miss Florence Kennedy, sopranos; Misses Muriel Palmer and Marion Duncan, altos; Messrs. W. B. Kammerer, W. S. Shelly and H. C. Smith, tenors; E. Barron and C. P. Herrington, basses. Mrs. G. S. Robson, accompanist.

A musical and literary program will be given in the afternoon beginning at two o'clock. This part of the program will be furnished under the direction of Dean Allen of the College of Pacific. Both programs will be given at the M. E. church auditorium.

A basket ball game will be played at the High School court at 3:30. A most cordial invitation is extended all to attend and enter into the spirit of the day.

In your land and my land and half the world away;

Rose-red and blood-red its stripes forever gleam,
Snow-white and soul-white, the good forefathers' dream;

Sky-blue and true-blue, with stars that gleam
aright;

The gloried guidon of the day; a shelter thro'
the night.

"Your flag and my flag, and oh, how much it holds!

Your land and my land secure within its folds;
Your heart and my heart beat quicker at the sight;

The one flag, the great flag, the flag for me and Glorified all else beneath, the red and white and

If Print Blurs When Reading

Are Glasses Necessary?

If print blurs while reading, it indicates, in young people, an exhausted focusing power of the eyes either through extreme weakness or a defect in the eyes that puts more work on the eyes than they can do. Glasses are a great relief in either case. In older people it is a natural consequence due to age. The older they grow the more pronounced the blur. Under natural conditions the vision usually begins to recede—the print held farther from the eyes—between the ages of forty and forty-five. The only remedy is glasses and it is a very great aid in preserving the eyesight to get the glasses as soon as the first symptoms appear. At Dr. Merrill's office Monday, Feb. 28.

PERSIA'S OLD CAPITAL

TEHERAN A CITY THAT HAS SEEN MANY VICISSITUDES.

Now the Center of Warring Interests That Threaten Its Very Existence —Not an Especially Healthy Place in Summer Months.

The capital of a small buffer state between three clashing empires, the English, Russian and Ottoman empire, Teheran in recent years, and more especially since the outbreak of the great war, has had an importance thrust upon it of a most embarrassing kind, begins a war primer of the National Geographic society. Geographically of greater interest to each of the groups of contending powers than any other neutral capital, Persian Teheran is experiencing insuperable difficulties in keeping its destiny clear of those of the warring giants around it.

Teheran, according to the Persian, is very beautiful, but the praise of his country's capital is seldom supported unreservedly by the westerner; for he finds the Persian city of Shiraz far more beautiful and Isfahan the peer of the residence. The capital lies 79 miles south of the Caspian sea, on a plateau of coarse sand and gravel, which is fringed by low, distant hills, and, to the north, by some higher mountains. Mount Damavand is the key to the city's setting, towering in the northeast to a magnificent crest of 19,400 feet high. To the southward stretch level lands, which lose themselves in waste and desert.

The East and West meet and mingle as oil and water in the shah's metropolis. Teheran is, of course, a purely Oriental city, but, like all eastern centers of importance, it has suffered such encroachments from the West as street cars, telegraphs, gas lighting and severely dyed and tailored clothes for men. It is backward in its development and uneven in its improvement. Its Boulevard des Ambassadeurs is more or less of a splendid thoroughfare and it is lined with a European type of shops, two good hotels and a number of fine native palaces. It has one of the largest military parade grounds in the world—550 by 350 yards—roughly paved with strewn cobble stones.

The modern city is not so very old, as it came into existence less than 700 years ago, about the time that ancient Ragha, the crumbling suburb to the south, began to sink into oblivion. Ragha, known in the time of Alexander the Great as Rague, was the birthplace of Harun al-Rashid, and at one time the golden capital of Parthia. In the days of its supremacy it was as vain and rich and showy as storied Hamadan, the pride of earliest Persia, the city of seven walls in seven colors, with palaces wrought in gold and silver and frescoed with precious stones. Modern Teheran is the inheritor of the traditions and the pride of Rague and of Hamadan and of the ancient honors of Pasargadae and Persepolis. With the rise of Teheran, Media regained the place that it lost to Persia in the time of Cyrus.

Anarchy has ruled within the capital in a way more or less pronounced during the last several years, and the people of the city have accomplished little toward its modernization and development of its importance as a place of commerce and manufacture. There is an important caravan trade, which passes through Teheran toward the Russian borders, and a certain manufacture of cotton, linen, carpets, shoes and iron products. Its business is enough to give support to a population of about 260,000, in which are included about 600 Europeans.

The climate of Teheran is not a favorable one and especially are the summers unhealthy, when all of the people who can get away go to the foothills in the north. Writing in 1596, a Persian gives a pathetic summary of a Teheran summer. He says that the air was too hot and even smelly, that the water was heavy and unwholesome and, in short, everything so bad that the Angel of Death ran away from it. But, then, this author wrote shortly after a fearful cholera plague had passed over the city. The nearby contrast of the cool summer gardens in the foothills, likely, has conspired to give the Teheran summer a bad standing.

Wisconsin's History.

Wisconsin has from time to time been an annex of various other states. Wisconsin from 1805 to 1809 formed a part of Indiana territory. From 1809 to 1818 Wisconsin was embraced in the territory of Illinois. When Illinois became a state all the country north of it, including Wisconsin, was joined to Michigan. After more than forty years of shifting Wisconsin was admitted into the Union with her present boundaries in 1848.

Her Belief.

Harlow—My wife is too much of an orthodox to suit me.

Barlow—Makes you get up and go to church Sunday morning, eh?

Harlow—No; but judging from her regular raids on my pocketbook she evidently thinks I am made of "dust."

America's Own Spa

THE SPRING HOUSE

MANITOU, the far-famed Colorado watering place, lies as in a cradle nest, in a cup-shaped glen, which is properly the opening of Ute pass, at an elevation of 6,123 feet above sea level. The town is shut away from the winds by a majestic mountain wall, whose precipitous sides rise almost from its streets. Pike's Peak, trending westward and just visible above the crowded summits, gleams like a silver hem to the blue mantle of the sky, writes Gilbert McClurg.

Manitou is essentially a summer watering place. Although its excellent sewage, its modern means and methods of living render it a desirable place of permanent residence, yet it is best known as an agreeable summer watering place. It offers tourists accommodations ranging from tent and automobile camp, modest boarding house or picturesque bungalow to modern, excellently equipped hotels in varying style proportioned to all purposes.

These center around the wonderful group of radio-active mineral springs in the town's heart, where the resort hotels, Swiss chalets or bungalows, line winding avenues or dot hillside terraces bright with flowers or foliage shaded.

Its Springs Bring Health.

Varied as to analyses, Manitou's fourteen springs are strongly impregnated with soda, iron or magnesia, lithia, lime, potash and other healthful elements. They are specific for stomach, kidney and blood diseases and rheumatism, while highly tonic and beneficial to the nerves.

In radio-activity the gases of the Shoshone spring at Manitou have 31.2 mache units and Navajo geyser at Manitou has 13.3 units, while Johanna-bad spring at Baden-Baden has 16.6 units and Vichy but one unit.

Pagosa springs are almost identical with the waters of Carlsbad, and Bad Nauheim is duplicated at Glenwood Springs. The thermal waters of Idaho Springs, near Denver, are chemically akin to the Sprudel waters of Carlsbad, Bohemia.

At Wagonwheel Gap, Colo., there are three famous hot springs, the Hot Salme, Hot Soda and Boiling Spring, and cold lithia springs. These springs are similar in general mineralization to the waters of Ems, Germany.

Clark's Wells in Pueblo are a highly valued group of mineral springs.

This list does not by any means cover the groups of mineral springs in the state, but these are chosen because of the comparative analyses that have been made with the waters of noted European resorts.

The writer of these lines well remembers how about forty years ago there was persistently brought to market for $50 a chalybeate spring. The spring lay in a high meadow near the Platte river in the beautiful South park of Colorado, the Bayou Salade of the early explorers.

The water was deliciously cold, as if refrigerated in unknown depths, of surpassing flavor, as it bubbled up among the gentians which fringed its pool.

But who wanted a spring fifty miles from nowhere? So the bargain was offered without takers from the infrequent teamsters or rheumatic cripples who passed or tarried at the springs.

These Hartsel hot springs and the Iron spring are now being developed by Chicago capital and are valued at $50,000.

Great Place for Excursions.

Three red canyons converge at Manitou—Riverton, the shortest horse-back trail to Pike's Peak; Williams, or more properly Manitou Canyon, the highway to the Cave of the Winds, and the Pass. The latter, which gave El Paso county its name, shows on its ribbed sides many geologic strata, beginning with Laurentian granite.

Up Ute Pass, past Florissant with the petrified stumps, over the Hayden Divide and up Grand Canyon to South park, over the Midland railway, excursions are run every summer day for gathering wild flowers.

Down the steep slopes of the pass dashes in turbulent foam the Fontaine qui Bouille, past the pretty summer resorts dotted along its course. Down this pass came the Utes in the winter to fight the Cheyennes on the plains, and up the pass in summer came the Cheyennes to return the compliment and fight the Utes.

As the stars and wreaths of electric lights at Manitou are thrown into unearthly brilliancy by their background of somber mountains, so the story of the dark and bloody days of Indian warfare only accentuates the contrast between them and the gayety of the spa of the three red canyons, the tress of hearts, pulsating with life, musical with orchestral or band concerts and the song of the rushing Fontaine.

Not far from Manitou, directly to the east, lies Colorado Springs; and between them is Colorado City, the "pay roll town" of central Colorado. Cripple Creek gold finds its way down hill to this point, where 10,000,000 tons of ore are annually treated.

A huge couchant lion, to the south of Colorado Springs, looms the bulk of Cheyenne mountain.

The mountain is seamed by two canyons, North and South Cheyenne. The latter cleaves the mountain to its base with a narrow ravine, cut down 1,000 feet in the solid red rock by the mighty hand of centuries. The canyon is thickly wooded and terminates in an amphitheater of rocks, down which leaps Cheyenne Creek in a succession of seven falls from a height of 700 feet. A quarter of a mile upstream one comes to Midnight Falls, and a short distance farther Juniata Falls are to be seen.

RARE ADDITION TO MUSEUM

Specimens of Congo Game, Insects and Snakes Collected by a Member of the Staff.

The bongo and okapi are animals that are seen in their natural state only in museums, after they are stuffed. They are extremely rare both inside and outside of museums and the American Museum of Natural History is shortly to be enriched by mounted specimens of both, along with some 60,000 African insects, 1,500 snakes and 20,000 catalogued subjects of all kinds. The collection is the result of six years' work in the Belgian Congo by Herbert Lang of the museum staff. Among the 20,000 specimens are 3,500 examples of implements, pottery and textiles related to savage arts and crafts, including the art of living. The number of specimens is so large that one is moved to wonder what the natives had left to sell to the next explorer after Mr. Lang had finished his collection. The okapi is a zebra-like animal, very timid, and only two or three white men have ever seen it. Mr. Lang captured a baby okapi, which had been deserted by its mother on the approach of the hunters. The baby got along well until the supply of milk gave out, and then its pelt was added to the collection. Beside the bongo and okapi skins the collection includes skins of the giant eland, white rhinoceros, lions, elephants, buffaloes and many rare birds.—Christian Herald.

SNOWBALL PERFORMS.

One day, while Snowball was in the city, he saw a sign which read: "See Prof. Anastasius Papadopoulos' trained cats."

"Trained cats?" said Snowball. "I wonder what they can do? I'll go in and see." When his master had gone to lunch that day Snowball went to the theater. There were cats big and little. One walked a tight rope, another very handsome cat waltzed to the music of the orchestra and one cat wheeled a kitten in a cart. "I should not care to be the kitten in the cart," thought Snowball, as the cart tipped from side to side.

The thing that pleased Snowball the most was the cat that walked across the stage on its front paws while its hind feet were raised in the air and steadied by a little stick which the professor held. "If I could do that," said Snowball, "I should be the most wonderful cat in the neighborhood. They are very smart kittens," said Snowball, as he went out, and all the way home he wondered how he could practice the wonderful things he had seen without Kit and Puff seeing him until he was able to perform perfectly.

The next day, when Kit and Puff were asleep in their basket, Snowball went to the barn. He walked on his hind legs and found that he could waltz very well, or he felt sure he could if he had the music, but to walk on his front feet with his hind legs held up high was a very difficult thing to do, he found. He could stand on his front feet with his hind feet against the side of the barn, but when he tried to walk he could not balance himself. "I could ask Puff or Kit to hold the stick as the professor did," he thought, "but they would be sure to claim all the glory. I'll try walking the clothesline first and practice this again." He ran up the post and very cautiously put one paw on the line. It moved in the most unsteady manner. "If it were flat," said Snowball, "it would be easy, for I can walk on the top of a very narrow fence."

He clawed the line fiercely with his front paws and buried his sharp claws in it, then he drew one hind foot very carefully from the post, but just as he put it on the line it swung and poor Snowball turned over and fell to the ground. He landed on his feet and looked around to see if anyone saw him, but no one was in sight. "I might try turning a somersault," said Snowball, "one of the professors' cats did that, but the post is too high to tumble from, and I do not think I will try rope-walking, either, but stick to the other tricks. I will have to ask Puff to hold the stick under my hind feet. I suppose, for I must do that trick anyway."

All the tabbies and kittens for miles around were invited to see Snowball in his wonderful three-act performance. The barn floor was filled and some of the younger kittens climbed into the hay loft.

Kit announced that Snowball would first perform his wonderful act of walking on his hind legs. Snowball came from behind a horse blanket curtain, which was hung in front of a stall. He was dressed in his red sweater. He bowed to the audience, who applauded loudly. "Isn't he handsome?" was heard from all parts of the barn. Puff and Kit felt that he would score another victory. Snowball jumped into the air and landed on his hind legs, then walked upright across the barn floor.

"Oh; he is just too lovely for anything!" said one old tabby as Snowball disappeared behind the curtain amid a storm of applause.

Kit announced that Snowball next would waltz to the music of a music box turned by Puff. Snowball appeared this time without his sweater, but the collar and tie showed to advantage. Round and round he whirled until he was dizzy, but he kept on his feet and retired to his stall dressing room.

"Wonderful, wonderful!" said the tabbies, while the kittens were speechless with admiration.

"And now," Kit announced, "Snowball will walk on his front feet with his hind legs held in the air." Puff appeared with Snowball for this act, and when Snowball placed his hind legs against the side of the barn, Puff put the stick under his feet to steady him. Snowball walked across the barn and back to the curtain and then gave a spring and landed on all four feet.

But what was the matter with his hind legs? They felt queer and he could not move them. Puff pushed him behind the curtain. The audience applauded and called for Snowball, but he could not walk. His hind legs were held fast by the stick.

Puff and Kit were smiling and bowing and getting all the glory out in front. What should he do? And what had happened? He put his nose around and felt something sticky. Then he knew Puff and Kit had put glue on the stick and it was stuck fast to his fur. They had crippled him that they might be in front of the curtain alone to receive the applause and congratulations of the audience.

Poor Snowball! He licked and licked at the stick, but by the time he had moved the sticky hobbles the cats and kittens had gone.

Snowball went into the house and stretched himself behind the kitchen stove to think over his unjust treatment, and how he could punish Puff and Kit for the trick they had played on him.

DECORATING A GIRL'S ROOM

Furnishings Should Be Kept Simple and of Such Material That They May Be Easily Cleaned.

The decorations and furnishings in a girl's room should be kept simple. The curtains, hangings, dresser scarfs and pin-cushions, even the toilet articles, should all be of such material that they may be cleaned easily.

Thin, sheer materials make the daintiest covers for dressers and tables, while the side curtains may be of heavier cretonne or linen over thin white muslin. Toilet articles of celluloid are in better taste than those of heavily embossed, plated silver, which become tarnished.

The woodwork is always nicest when painted cream-white, while the floor should be either stained or painted, and covered with a large rug or small ones. Rag rugs are as fitting as any floor covering, and they come in lovely colors. You may sew the rugs and have the rugs woven to order, and obtain just the shades desired by having dyed the colors yourself. The walls may be papered in a plain, striped or flowered paper, or tinted, or even painted, in a clear, flax tone. Plain ceilings are always most restful, and if figured walls are present it is best to have the hangings plain also.

HOW TO MAKE A RABBIT TRAP

Illustrations Given of Three Contrivances That Will Interest Boys During Winter.

L. W. Frank of Pleasanton, Kan., sends the description of three rabbit traps to Farmers Mail and Breeze, that boys will be anxious to try this winter.

Trap a Buried Barrel.

He says that rabbits like to run through hollow logs, etc., and the first trap shown is built on this plan. Bury a barrel in the ground so the top of it will come just level with the top of the ground. Make a box about four feet long to lay over the barrel. In the center of the lower side of this box make a door, fitting it on pivots so it will tilt with the slightest weight. The rabbit runs into the box, steps on the door and slides down into the barrel. The door swings back into place and the trap is ready for another rabbit. The next trap shown is also open at each end, but one end has screening across it. At the other end is a spindle hooked lightly, and a cord runs from the spindle up to the slide door. In trying to go through this trap, either through curiosity or for food, Mr. Rabbit unhooks the spindle and the door slides down. The third trap is something like the second one, but not so good, as mice can spring it and bait is necessary. Bait can also be used on No. 2, but the rabbit can be caught without it, because, in crowding past the spindle, the rabbit unhooks it and lets the door fall.

A Sliding Door.

Bait Is Necessary.

Not a Joshua.

Charley and Nancy had quarreled. After their supper mother tried to re-establish friendly relations. She told them of the Bible verse, "Let not the sun go down upon your wrath."

"Now, Charlie," she pleaded, "are you going to let the sun go down on your wrath?"

Charlie squirmed a little. Then: "Well, how can I stop it?"

FAITH IN MARINES

English Monarch Responsible for Famous Saying.

On the Authority of Samuel Pepys, the Following Account of a Historic Incident Is Given to the World.

If you "tell it to the marines," be quite sure you have it right, for that warring amphibian is not the credulous personage you have always supposed him to be. United States marine corps officers have traced the famous saying, "Tell it to the marines," to none other than our old friend Samuel Pepys of the diary renown, the original "first nighter," who tells us that the saying had origin with Charles II, the merry monarch of England.

"It so befell," the story goes, "that his lighthearted majesty, with an exceedingly bored expression on his swarthy face, was walking in the shade with the ingenious Mr. Pepys, secretary to the admiralty."

"I had a speech yesterday at Deptford," said Mr. Pepys, "with the captain of the Defiance, who hath but lately returned from the Indies, and who told me the two most wonderful things that ever I think I did hear in my life." Among the stories told were of fish flying in the air.

"Fish flying in the air!" exclaimed his majesty. "He, ha, a quaint conceit, which 'twere too good to spoil by keeping. What, sir?" (he turned and beckoned to the Colonel, Sir William Killigrew, of the newly-raised maritime regiment on foot, who was following in close conversation with the Duke of York) "we would discourse with you on a matter touching your element. What say you, colonel, to a man who swears he hath seen fishes fly in the air?"

"I should say, sire," returned the sea soldier, simply, "that the man hath sailed in southern seas. For when your majesty's business carried me hither of late I did frequently observe more flying fish in one hour than the hairs of my head in number."

Old Rowley glanced narrowly at the colonel's frank, weather-beaten face. Then, with a laugh, he turned to the secretary and said: "Mr. Pepys, from the very nature of their calling no class of our subjects can have so wide a knowledge of seas and lands as the officers and men of our loyal maritime regiment. Henceforth, whenever we cast doubt upon a tale that lacketh likelihood, we will tell it to the marines—if they believe it, it is safe to say it is true."

EASY TO REGULATE HEAT

By the Use of Adjustable Thermostatic Controller the Temperature of Room May Be Fixed.

By the invention of an adjustable thermostatic controller which is intended to be attached to a steam or hot water radiator a simple means of maintaining a room at a nearly constant temperature has been devised. The plan of the instrument, says Popular Mechanics, is such as to make it possible to keep separate rooms in a house at different temperatures when illness or other conditions make this desirable.

The device is only a few inches in height, and is not objectionable in appearance. The thermostat consists of two corrugated silver disks which are hermetically joined. The hollow space provided between these drums is filled with a gas, the expansion and contraction of which turns on and off the steam when the heat in a room drops below or rises above predetermined points.

A shield is provided which protects the thermostat against the effect of heat given off from the radiator.

Science in the Kitchen.

To plan a kitchen successfully one must consider carefully the scientific arrangement thereof. After the location of the stove has been decided upon, the sink must be placed. This necessitates a consultation with the plumber, as well as with the architect, since its position is largely dependent upon the location of the water pipes and upon the drainage.

A generous space should be allotted to the sink; also, it should be sufficiently large to permit two persons to work comfortably there. It must be well lighted by ample windows placed above it; if these are double-hung sash windows, one may have the maximum of fresh air, even in extremely cold weather, with no discomfort while washing dishes or otherwise working at the sink.

DOUBLE CONTEMPT OF COURT

Gen. Gilman Marston Was Thoroughly
Disgusted With Court and Willing to Pay for It.

The following anecdote is told of Gen. Gilman Marston, a once famous
New Hampshire lawyer:

General Marston was attending court at a small country town when a young attorney made a motion that was denied by the court. The young man remonstrated against what he thought was the wrong ruling of the judge. So vehemently did he do so that he was fined $10 for contempt of court. An older attorney took the matter up, and he was fined a similar sum. Still another, who thought he stood a little better with the judge, endeavored to straighten the matter
out, but he, too, enriched the coffers of the state by paying a "ten-spot" for contempt.

General Marston was then seen to rise in his seat and advance to the clerk's desk. Taking his long pocketbook from his pocket, he took out two $10 bills and laid them on the desk.

"What is that for?" said the judge.
"I want you to distinctly understand," said the general, "that I have just twice as much contempt for this court as any man here, and I am paying for it."

Prosperous.
"Young Plodgett seems to have done well in the city."

"Yes," replied the old resident.
"That young feller must be drawn in a fancy salary. He useter run around Hicksville with nothin' on but a shirt an' a pair of overalls, but now when he comes back ter see th' home folks
he rides up from th' deepo in th' hotel bus."

Illusion of Strength.
"Of course you don't believe clothes
make the man?"
"No," replied the observant person,
"but they seem to influence his conduct in life considerably."
"How so?"
"The more pads a football player has on his shoulders the more he enjoys having his picture taken by a newspaper photographer."

WOULD MAKE PLOT ORIGINAL

Improve Moving Picture Plays by Making Waitress the Heroine and Cook the Villainess.

"The principal thing I don't like about these moving-picture shows,"
said the fat plumber, "is the similarity of plot. They all seem to begin the same and all have the same old ending."

"Well," the thin carpenter returned,
"I suppose it is pretty hard to think up something original."

"I don't see why."

"Perhaps you could do the trick yourself."

"I think I could."

"Well, let's hear you tackle it."

"I'd have a waitress for the heroine."

"Nothing particularly novel in that."

"And a cook for the villainess."

"Why a cook?"

"That is where the plot comes in.
You see, the cook gets jealous of the waitress and puts fish bones in the hero's mashed potatoes." — Buffalo News.

HIS IDEA.

Miss Green (selling tickets for church bazar)—Mr. Wise, did you ever go to a church sociable?

Mr. Wise—Why, I'm sociable when ever I go.

No Danger.

"I see Gadson and Dubwaite comparing watches. They'll be quarreling in a moment."

"I think not."

"But they are sure to have an argument over the merits of their respective timepieces."

"You are entirely wrong. Both have tin watches and both are blessed with a sense of humor."

She Would Be Sorry.

"My young friend," said the reformer, who was studying the night life in a great city, do you realize that it is only a step from the cabaret to the gutter?"

"I guess you mean the curb, don't you?" replied the gorgeously dressed young woman. "Believe me, I'm glad of it on a rainy night when I have to run for a taxi."

Unattached.

"Who is that seedy-looking fellow?"
"He claims to be a citizen of the world."

"It's quite likely."

"Yes?"

"I can't imagine extra inducements being offered him to settle in any particular spot."

Oh, Pickles!

Miss Elderly—I was so frustrated when Mr. Bleeker called that I'm sure he will think I acted like a goose.

Miss Young—Well, you certainly don't expect him to think a woman of your age would act like a spring chicken, do you?

Logical Deduction.

"What reason have you for thinking that man is a physician?" asked the student.

"I overheard him say that he didn't enjoy good health," answered the great detective.

Unusual Type.

"This is the sort of moving picture play I enjoy."

"A story of adventure, eh?"

"Yes. And the hero is a homely wretch. I can't help wishing him well."

Quite Impossible.

"Pa, what is an armadillo?"
"Ahem! I don't believe I know, son.
There are so many new-fangled fighting machines used these days that I can't keep up with them all."

CALOMEL SELDOM SOLD HERE NOW

Nasty drug salivates, makes you sick and you lose a day's work.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has refused a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason.
Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.
"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs 50 cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation,
you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow
you will feel weak, sick and nauseated.
Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine,
full of vigor and ambition.—Adv.

China and Christianity.

The progress of the Christian religion in China under the policy of "very benevolent neutrality" practiced by Yuan Shi-kai is noteworthy. During the last year, it is said, over 700
high officials, merchants and literati have enrolled in Bible classes. The churches in Peking—12 in all—are filled to overflowing with new adherents, and several of them have enlarged their quarters. It is not unusual to see meetings held under Christian auspices attended by audiences of 3,000 students. Yuan Shi-kai himself recently made a big contribution to the work of the Methodist college in Peking.

EASY WAY TO HEAL COMMON SKIN-TROUBLES

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but well-tried and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ringworm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable druggist's get a jar of resinol ointment and a cake of resinol soap. These are not at all expensive. With the resinol soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resinol ointment, and cover with a light bandage, if necessary, to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again unless the trouble is due to some serious internal disorder. Samples free. Dept. 7-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.—Adv.

"Arrived last week."

"Did you have any exciting experi-

"None worth speaking about."

"But what did you do when Zepp-

"Oh, I—er—lighted a cigarette and waited for something to happen."

"Umph! Sheer bravado!"

"Of course. I had to do something to make those bally Britishers think I wasn't frightened, and had no monocle to adjust."

Remembered His Grudge.

"Were you still at loggerheads with your rich uncle when he died?"

"Yes. The old gentleman never got over his animosity toward me."

"Ahem! Did he remember you when he made his will?"

"It's quite likely. He didn't leave me a cent."

Quite an Effort.

"Did I understand you to say that Dubson is a deep thinker?"

"No. He's a hard thinker."

"What's the difference?"

"There's a great deal. Any sort of thinking is hard to Dubson."

Thrifty Candidate.

"I understand Blabson was a candidate for office in the recent election."

"Yes. He made a close race, too."

"Why, he received only a few hundred votes."

"True. And he spent only a few hundred dollars."

Where They Had Met.

Judge—Have you ever met the prisoner at the bar?

Witness—Of course I have, your

Judge—Why do you say "of course?"

Witness—I'm a bartender.

Most Likely.

jewelry must be worn with filmy clothes."

"How about the stage dances?"

"I presume it means when the jewelry is not the principal part of the

A Preserver.

"How shall we preserve the forests!" said the worried woodsman.

"Leave it to my wife," replied the town idler. "A woman who can preserve green tomatoes and watermelon rinds oughtn't to be baffled by a few trees."

Ray of Comfort.

"Mrs. Fritters seems inconsolable

"I seriously doubt it."

"Have you no heart?"

"Of course, but black is very becoming to Mrs. Fritters."

Signs.

he won't even have roses or vines

ners."

Theory Only.

"This is a free country."

"Yes, in theory."

"Why, what do you mean?"

"Isn't it composed mainly of married men?"

Bad Prospect.

"Don't call your boat Will o' the Wisp."

"Why not?"

"Don't you know it has a tendency to a swamp?"

NATURALLY.

"Say, pop, what is meant by a bump
of destructiveness?"

"Why, er, a railroad collision, of course."

Her Business.

"I certainly do pity any poor seamstress."

"Why a seamstress especially?"

"Because she's bound to see so much of the seamy side of life."

Natural Inference.

"I suppose wires are made of quick-tempered metal."

"Why do you think that?"

"Because it is so dangerous to cross them."

Not in His Line.

"Have you studied political economy?"

"No, sir. Economy is all right in its place. I'm one of those who believe in keeping business out of politics."

Increased Safety for Autos.

The automobile has been found to be such an important feature of the war operations that the German government has undertaken to increase the efficiency of the motor car by keeping the roads free of glass. Drastic orders have been issued on this subject, and the school children in all parts of the country have been instructed to look carefully over the roadways which they have to pass, and to pick up every bit of broken glass, or sharp piece of metal, which might be injurious to automobiles. Persons who are seen to drop glass or bottles upon the highways are subjected to severe reprimand on the first occasion and to a fine on the second.
Motorists who in former years have been suffering from the broken glass and sharp tacks on roads and streets declare that the order has cleaned the roads as if by magic, and that punctures or blowouts are rare things at present.

Methodist Church Notes

We were glad to see College Park win the banner this time, but, next time—ah, yes, next time—some other league gets that banner, and this is the first Sunday of the new quarter. Now is the time for every leaguer to come to the support of his chapter.

The special program conducted by Mr. Kammerer last Sunday evening was very instructive concerning the work our church is trying to do in bringing to the colored people the full fruits of the emancipation proclaimed by Pres. Lincoln. The attendance was very gratifying.

We were much shocked Monday morning in learning of the death of John Preston, who had appeared for some time to be convalescing. Mr. Preston has held membership in this church over twenty years. Only about twenty of our people have been in membership here longer than he.

The attendance at S. S. is steadily climbing, last Sunday showing the best record since the first of the year.

Mrs. Ludwig will have charge of the League meeting Sunday evening at the regular hour, 6:30, the subject "The Tragedy of Indifference".

The pastor will preach morning and evening.

On account of the supper Wednesday evening, the meeting of the S. S. board was postponed to next Wednesday.

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

Sunday a. m. the pastor will speak on: "And overthrew their tables", a new picture of Christ. Talk to the boys and girls on "Lighthouses", describing the Ft. Reyes lighthouse.

S. S. and C. E. as usual. Topic for C. E. is "Getting the Bible into the Life", Miss Catherine Cooper, leader. No evening service. The Prudential Com., in view of the very great importance of the meeting for men in San Francisco, voted to dismiss evening service so the pastor and any who wish could attend.

Remember the big entertainment planned by the C. E.'s for Feb. 22nd, 8 p. m. when Mr. Speers will give an illustrated Travelogue on "Touring Europe Under Four Flags", benefit manse fund.

Also the Danish Singers on Feb. 29. Our great Leap Year entertainment! Splendid reports come in of this.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor.

John N. Preston

John N. Preston whose death occurred quite unexpectedly Monday morning, altho he has been ill for several weeks, was born in Maine, seventy-two years ago last November.

He lived in the states of Pennsylvania, New York, Wisconsin and Kansas before coming to California where he has resided for nearly twenty-nine years. They made their home on a ranch on Leigh avenue until moving into Campbell some four years past.

The funeral services were held Wednesday morning from the undertaking parlors, Rev. W. H. Lloyd in charge there, and the G. A. R. having the services at the grave in Oak Hill cemetery.

The pallbearers were, Messrs. Fitch and Parker of Los Gatos, A. P. Merrill, N. F. Hills, I. Zion and Dr. Cooper of Campbell.

Mr. Preston is survived by one son, Rufus, who was present at the funeral. His wife passed to the great beyond in September of 1914, and his brother Ichabod in September, 1915.

Mr. Preston had been a faithful and devoted member of the Methodist church for over twenty years, where he will be greatly missed from his accustomed place.

SPRING is here. The beauties of the valley are beginning to develop. Almond and prune trees are already blooming and the garden enthusiast has begun to dig in the dirt. With the arrival of spring everyone thinks about the yard and with but one end in view, namely, to clean up. There is nothing that adds so much to the appearance of your town as well kept yards and vacant lots. It is now time to get busy.

Misses Sawyer Entertain

The Misses Mattie and Merna Sawyer entertained a company of friends Wednesday evening.

Several games were played, one being a peanut spearing contest in which Mr. Clyde Olive was most successful, winning a box of candy and Miss Masciorini getting the consolation, a Kewpie in Hawaiian costume of grass apron and leis.

Mrs. Henry Janica of Honolulu, who is studying vocal art in Berkeley was present and sang, and Mr. S. S. Steinhauer also of Honolulu who is in the U. S. on business, played the guitar and sang.

The other out of town guests were Miss Doris Carver of the Cambrian school, the Misses Mary Clark, Abbie Gilbert, Mable and Elsie Masciorini, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Olive all of San Jose.

Valentine Parties

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ainsley were hosts at a jolly Valentine party Monday evening. The house was profusely decorated with flowers and Valentine suggestions.

Miss Swope and Mrs. Ralph Hyde tied for ladies' prize, a box of candy, and Roy Archibald carried off the gaily dressed Kewpie.

The refreshment tables were bright with Valentine decorations, and following the lunch a musical program was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith entertained a second company of friends on Tuesday evening. The decorations combined the Valentine and patriotic ideas with jars of glowing acacia.

A new kind of art gallery was exhibited and the guests showed remarkable familiarity with the works of the really great artists.

In the card games, Mrs. W. H. Higbie and Mrs. Eleanor Christie scored highest for the ladies and Mr. Warren S. Shelly and Mr. Higbie for the gentlemen.

Following the refreshments, Mr. and Mrs. Shelly favored the company with several songs.

Men's Social

The Men's Social held at the Cong'l church Friday evening was a marked success. Supper was ready promptly on time and the men proved to be quite efficient waiters.

The entertainment which followed has been pronounced by many one of the best things ever given in Campbell. The main feature was a burlesque of the last improvement Club banquet and was very cleverly done. All of the speakers were represented, and while little mannerisms and jokes were brought out, everything was done in such good spirit, and no personalities indulged in, that the original speakers all seemed to enjoy it as much as the rest.

Mr. Lanphear, as "Mrs. Stigbie," and Mr. Herrington, as "Mrs. Raiston Alce," were naturally the funniest, and when Mr. Herrington sang a duet, in falsetto, with Mr. Barron, they brought down the house.

The same mixed voices that are to sing for Old Settlers' day gave two very delightful selections.

W. C. T. U.

There was a large attendance on Frances Willard Day at the home of Ellis Preston, over 30 being present. The key-note was "Attempt great things for God; expect great things from God."

After the usual opening exercises a short business session was held. The committee on the Washington Birthday dinner at the Coffee Club, urged each member to do all in her power to make the dinner a complete success. A program in charge of Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Winans was then given. A sketch of Miss Willard's life; quotations from her sayings; tributes to her rare ability and matchless spirit; explanation of the purpose and benefits resulting to the cause of temperance, made possible thru offerings on Frances Willard Day, made the program one of much interest.

Mrs. Blaine favored the company with a couple of sweet solos and Miss Luella Thompson rendered two spicy selections, giving as an encore one especially charming—"Don't you remember?"

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Vandergone on First street, Feb. 23d and the topic will be "The W. C. T. U. Movement for National Constitutional Prohibition."

A communication was read asking Campbell Union to appoint a superintendent of work among Foreign-speaking people. The selection was deferred until a later date.
